INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

The present catalogue contains the titles of over three thousand different publications relating to Australasia, Malaysia, Polynesia, and the Pacific Ocean, all of which have been accumulated from private libraries and public sales during the last two years.

Such an extensive collection in this branch of geography never having been offered for sale before, it has been my desire that the catalogue should serve as a "Book Prices Current" on the subject. The prices are fair and reasonable, even at a time like the present when competition is keen; for, with the increase of libraries and collectors, the tendency must be upward, especially of items known to be out of print, scarce, or rare.

I believe the catalogue will also be found bibliographically useful. Compiled for the most part by an expert, Mr. E. A. Petherick, F.R.G.S., it contains a series of classified Indexes of Subjects and Authors, and many valuable and interesting notes from his long-promised and much-needed "Bibliography of Australasia and Polynesia" an abridged prospectus of which will be found on page 220.

The authorship of anonymous works where known is given in brackets thus: [Carter (Charles Rooking)]. Where the place of publication is not stated London is understood.

As the literature of Australasia is a growing one, I hope from time to time to issue supplements to the present catalogue, and shall be glad to have the names of librarians and gentlemen who collect books or pamphlets on the subject. Lists of desiderata will be carefully attended to; offers of duplicates for sale or exchange are invited.

FRANCIS EDWARDS.

- 47 ANGAS'S New Zealanders—Another Copy, in the original 10 parts, clean as when first issued. 1847 £16
Native races, now fast fading away before the immigrant European population, were perhaps, never before so faithfully portrayed as in the magnificent works of Angas. These have become so rare that suggestions have from time to time been made for their reproduction, but the cost has been against it. After fifty years—so well was the work done—the colouring retains its original brightness. No library of Australasia is complete without these works, and no history of New Zealand can be understood without reference to Angas's "New Zealanders," for the artist has painted not only the Maori race in groups, in native attire, and in its habitat, but he has given us individual portraits of historical personages, such as Hongi Hongi [or Shungi], Honi Heki, Patuone, Rangihaeta, Te Whero Whero, Nene, Te Heuheu, and other famous warriors, enemies as well as friends to British rule.

All the publications attributed to George Barrington are spurious, the earliest were known to him only by report. The 'prologue' said to have been spoken at a theatrical performance in Sydney, 16th Jan., 1796, including the lines:—

"True patriots [we] for be it understood

which 'prologue' appears in this 'History' only (editions 1802 and 1810, pp. 152-153), was also the work of the compiler, or compilers, in London, and not the composition of Barrington or of an officer at the Settlement as is sometimes suggested.

The first edition having been long out of print (occasionally realizing three times the amount of the original published price), and the author having spent another thirteen years in New Zealand, extending his knowledge of the subject and obtaining fresh specimens, he was induced to produce this enlarged edition. It contains facsimiles of forty-eight beautiful coloured drawings of the birds represented as they appear in life, with accessories drawn from the native flora of the country. These are highly finished pictures in the best style of modern art, all the colour-stones having been drawn either by or under the immediate direction of KEULEMANS. In addition to the coloured plates, the introduction is profusely illustrated with woodcuts, and a supplementary chapter gives numerous illustrations of nests, etc.

The work is accompanied by a List of Subscribers, and a complete Index to both Volumes.

"The plates are absolutely perfect. . . . The birds are reproduced in colours on as large a scale as practicable, and with a truth to nature which reflects great credit on the skill of the artist, Mr. Keulemans. So far as the letterpress goes, it ought to satisfy all wants."—Times.

- 411 Burney (Admiral) Chronological History of Voyages and Discovery in the South Sea, or Pacific Ocean, maps and plates, 5 vols, 4to, new half morocco, gilt tops. 1803-17 £7 10s
- This comprehensive work contains narratives of all the Voyages made to the Pacific Ocean, the Western Coasts of North and South America, Australia, New Guinea, and the Solomon Islands, the Moluccas, Philippines, Japan and the Sandwich Islands, Marquesas, and other Polynesian Groups up to, and including, the Voyage of Anson, 1744. The Collection must always form the basis of historical research for early voyages and discoveries in the Pacific, as well as the foundation of every Australasian Library. In the First Volume will be found accounts of the earliest discovery of the Pacific by Europeans in 1513, the crossing of that Ocean by Magellan in 1520, and Loaysa in 1526, the attempts at further discoveries from Mexico by Cortes, the first Voyage of Mendaña from Peru, 1567-68, and that of Drake Round the World, 1577-80. The Second Volume treats of Voyages from 1579 to 1620, including those of Sarmiento, Mendaña (Second Voyage, 1595), and those of Fernandez de Quiros and Luis Vaez de Torres (in 1606). The Third Volume treats of the Dutch Expeditions, including Dr. Woide's Translation of Tasman's 'Journal,' and the opening of Dutch Trade with Japan. The Fourth Volume is devoted to the Story of the Filibusters and Buccaneers in the West Indies and South Seas, including Morgan, Dampier, and their Companions. The Fifth Volume continues the Account of the Spanish Missions to the Ladrones and Caroline Islands; the Voyage of Anson, Wreck of the "Wager," Bougainville's Voyage to the Malouines, or Falklands, in 1763-66, and a copious Index to the whole work.

- 560 — New South Wales. Another copy, 2 vols, newly bound in calf extra, yellow edges £6 10s
- 561 — Another copy, 2 vols, 4to, half calf £5 15s
This work of Collins, who as Judge-advocate and Secretary of the Colony, had access to all official documents and a personal knowledge of all the events that took place during the first fourteen years of the settlements at Sydney, Parramatta, and on the Hawkesbury, is fuller and more authoritative than the works of Phillip and Hunter. Collins's volumes have been the mine hitherto worked by all subsequent historians, as well as by the hack-writers—bookaneers—who did not hesitate to appropriate the work of a judge-advocate and to ascribe it to a convict; paragraph after paragraph and page after page in the lower priced books, which bear the name of Barrington as author (who never saw those volumes, and only knew of them by report), are taken from this work of Collins. An expensive publication when first issued, Collins's work has retained its full published price to the present time and must rise in price in the future.
- Among the illustrations are seven views (the earliest ever done) of Sydney Cove and Town. The Voyage of Flinders and Bass in 1798-99 appears in the Second Volume of Collins and was printed from Bass's own Journal, which was subsequently lost, and has never since been found.

CONTENTS OF THIS SET :—

I. VOYAGE IN THE "ENDEAVOUR" (1769-70), in which Tahiti and the Society Islands were visited, New Zealand discovered to be two islands, the eastern coasts of Van Diemen's Land and New South Wales surveyed, and Torres Straits passed through. To this First Voyage of Cook are prefixed the Voyage of Commodore BYRON in the "Dolphin" (1764-66), who, it was insinuated, discovered only Patagonian "Giants"; that of Capt. WALLIS (1766-68), also in the "Dolphin" re-discovering the Society Islands; and that of Capt. CARTERET in the "Swallow" (1766-69), when Pitcairn and Queen Charlotte's Islands were discovered, and Dampier's New Britain, found to be composed of two large islands, the second was named New Ireland. Byron and Wallis both visited the Ladrões, and they, as well as Carteret, returned through the Eastern Archipelago.

The Illustrations and Charts to these Voyages are bound up with the text and fill three volumes, which are known as "HAWKESWORTH'S COLLECTION," 1773.

II SECOND VOYAGE OF COOK, in the "Resolution" (1772-75), when he was accompanied by Capt. FURNEAUX, in the "Adventure." A Voyage toward the South Pole, to search for the supposed Continent between the Meridian of the Cape of Good Hope and New Zealand, but Desolation (Kerguelen) Island and the Antarctic Continent only were discovered. New Zealand, the Society, Friendly, Easter, and other South Sea Islands and Tasmania, were revisited and the New Hebrides and New Caledonia discovered. An accompanying chart shows the tracks taken by Quiros, Le Maire, Tasman, Halley, Roggewein, Bouvet, de Surville, and preceding navigators. A fine portrait of Cook by Hodges, plates and charts, illustrating this voyage, are bound up with the text in two volumes, 1777.

83, High Street, Marylebone, London, W.

III. THIRD AND LAST VOYAGE to the Pacific Ocean, performed under the direction of Capts. Cook, Clerke, and Gore in the "Resolution" and "Discovery" (1776-80). In this voyage New Zealand was revisited as well as Tahiti, the Society, and Friendly Islands; the Sandwich Islands discovered; North West Coast of America, including Nootka Sound, Alaska, the Aleutian Islands and Behring Straits surveyed; the inhabitants of these countries and those of Kamtschatka described and delineated. The text and smaller charts and plates illustrating these transactions occupy two volumes; a third volume contains the Journals of Capt. King relating the death of Cook and giving a very full account of the Sandwich Islands and their inhabitants. To the whole narrative is added nautical tables, meteorological observations, and vocabularies of the languages of the Friendly and Sandwich Islands, and also of the Nootka language showing its affinity to that of the Greenlanders and Esquimaux. This voyage is accompanied by an ATLAS containing large chart showing the tracks of the three voyages, and sixty-two plates. No expense was spared in the production of the work: Dr. Douglas, Dean of Windsor, afterwards Bp. of Salisbury, edited the text, and the best engravers of the time—Bartolozzi, Byrne, Heath, Isaac Taylor—produced the plates.

With this copy of the Ordinary Atlas is bound up a series of sixteen views by WEBBER, and an additional drawing (also by Webber), viz: the Death of Captain Cook, engraved by Bartolozzi and Byrne, 1785 (16 by 11½).

In short, this set contains the full text, plates, and charts of the Three Voyages of Cook, with the preceding Voyages of Byron, Wallis and Carteret, bound in eight vols, royal 4to, and one vol, imperial folio, as above described.

Text in 2 vols, 4to, cloth, illustrated with 8 steel engravings after designs by W. Westall, and Atlas of charts and botanical plates, large folio, boards, uncut. 1814 £7

In addition to his narrative of the surveying voyage, the shipwreck, and his imprisonment in Mauritius, Flinders prefixed to his work an elaborate "Introduction" relating to prior discoveries of the Dutch on the North, West, and South Coasts; of Tasman, Cook, Marion, Furneaux, Bligh, Cox, D'Entrecasteaux, and Hayes on the coasts of Tasmania; as well as an account of his own boat expeditions with Bass, in which the existence of the Strait was proved and Tasmania circumnavigated for the first time. Having sailed in Bligh's second expedition to the South Seas, 1792, he has also included a brief account from his own journal of the discoveries then made in Torres Straits and the taking possession of the islands seen in the strait. This is the only account of the Second Voyage of Bligh which has ever been published. Brown, the prince of Botanists, accompanied the expedition of Flinders in the "Investigator" and his General Remarks on the Botany of Terra Australis, appears in the appendix to the present work. For separate edition of Brown's "Remarks," see page 27. Flinders, who was the first Navigator to investigate the laws of the deviation of the compass, and to discover the means of correcting it, gives the results of his investigations on that subject in a second appendix.

Supplementary Papers, R.G.S., consisting of Memoirs, Narratives, and Bibliographies, 4 vols, royal 8vo

Lands of Cazembe, edited by Capt. Burton, 1 vol

In the R. G. Society's "Journal" and "Proceedings" will be found the best and most authentic record of discovery and exploration, of hydrographical and topographical survey, and of archaeological research, since the year 1830. Of the fifteen hundred original narratives of voyagers and travellers contained in these volumes—many of them printed nowhere else—over two hundred relate to Malaysia, Australasia, Polynesia, and the Antarctic. Of more than seven hundred maps which accompany the narratives sixty belong to the same regions. Complete sets of the Society's publications are now difficult to make up, as the earlier volumes have long been out of print.

This fine atlas of charts contains forty large double page plates, showing latitude and longitude and coasts, islands, rocks, sandbanks, soundings, etc., of the Atlantic and Indian Oceans and Seas, engraved in the best style, with points of the compass, vessels, illustrations and arms of the various nationalities, the whole finely coloured. Among the charts of Australasian interest are: (1) The World in Hemispheres. (26) The East India Archipelago, Java, Sumatra, Borneo, Celebes, the Moluccas, Hollandia Nova, with Dutch discoveries to 1644, Carpentaria and Nova Guinea being separated. (40) The South Sea (dated 1666) showing the Pacific Ocean from California to Japan and Van Diemen's Land, with the Hawaiian, Marquesas, Society, Friendly and Fiji Groups, New Guinea and New Zealand. The American and West Indian Coasts are delineated on nine charts, California being shown as an island.

GOULD'S ORNITHOLOGICAL WORKS.

- 976 Gould (John) The Birds of Australia, with Supplement, complete in eight magnificent folio volumes, containing nearly 700 beautiful coloured plates, with descriptive letterpress and elaborate introductory matter, the whole uniformly bound, half morocco extra, gilt sides and edges. 1840-69 £160
To produce so perfect a work, the author visited the Colonies, and devoted two years to the observation of Australian birds in their native wilds, thus harvesting a knowledge of their migrations, changes of plumage, food, manners, and nidification—all, in fact, that concerns their history, or guides the naturalist in the determination of their affinities. In the end Mr. Gould considered "The Birds of Australia" to be the most important work which he had produced. It will also appeal to, and satisfy, the scientific scholar, the student of ornithology, as well as the man of taste, and lovers of the beautiful in nature or in art. No more beautiful works than Gould's Birds of Australia and of New Guinea have ever appeared. To borrow the words of an eminent naturalist, the late Mr. Macgillivray: "the works of Mr. Gould are without a rival in the cabinets of science, and the gem of every rich man's library."
The Birds of Australia has long been out of print, and the price for a complete set in London sale-rooms has risen to £220. The present set may therefore be considered a cheap, as well as a rare prize for the fortunate possessor. So favourable an opportunity for such a purchase for any Colonial public library has not occurred since the work was originally issued to subscribers in parts.

83, High Street, Marylebone, London, W.

- 977 GOULD (John) The Birds of New Guinea, and the adjacent Papuan Islands, including many new species recently discovered in Australia, completed after the Author's death by R. Bowdler Sharpe, containing 320 beautiful coloured plates, with descriptive letterpress, 5 volumes, imp. folio, half morocco extra, cloth sides, gilt edges. 1875-78

(published in this style at £84), new copy, now offered at £52

It is admitted by every naturalist that the birds of the Papuan Islands are the finest in creation—parrots, kingfishes, pittas; above all the birds of paradise, with their many different decorations, glorious forms, which to be understood, must be seen as represented here.

"The unadorned fidelity of the descriptions, and the exquisite accuracy of the plates, in which the utmost adherence to nature is united with that felicitous effect which stamps the artist, proves that grace and truthfulness may meet together. Mr. Gould's Works form in themselves an Ornithological Museum, pictorial we grant, but of such a character as to obviate the necessity of a collection of mounted specimens at no trifling cost, and preserved, even where room can be afforded for them, not without the greatest trouble."—Times.

- 978 GOULD (John) The Birds of Asia, described in a series of 530 coloured plates and descriptive letterpress, with an Introduction by R. Bowdler Sharpe, by whom the concluding articles were completed after the death of the Author, in 7 imp. folio volumes, bound in half morocco extra, cloth sides. 1850-1883

(published at £120) now out of print and scarce, £75

The author did not live to complete this work in its entirety, or as originally intended, but he included specimens of the majority of the species of the continent, and a very large number of specimens of the birds of the Philippine Islands, Sumatra, Java, Borneo, and other islands of the Malayan Archipelago. Australian libraries will therefore do well to add the "Birds of Asia" to their cabinets, as numerous Asiatic species are closely allied to those having their habitat in Australasia.

- 979 GOULD (John) Hand Book to the Birds of Australia, 2 vols, royal 8vo, cloth. 1865

(pub. £2 10s) £1 15s

Descriptions of 670 species pertaining to Australia, with appendix of 24 species pertaining to other countries, which have been figured in the folio work and Supplement, including a few from New Zealand, Norfolk and Lord Howe Islands.

- 980 GOULD (John) A Synopsis of the Birds of Australia, and the Adjacent Islands, containing 72 full page coloured plates showing heads and other characteristics of 168 species, one vol, imp. 8vo, half morocco extra, gilt edges. 1838 £4 10s

For Students and others to whom the great work of Gould is not accessible, this is a most useful work of reference. Mr. Gould's Collection of Australian birds (1,800 species) which had cost him £2,000 to collect was offered by him to the British Museum for £1,000, and, much to his own regret, declined. It was immediately afterwards purchased for that sum by Dr. John Wilson, of Philadelphia, and by him presented to the Academy of Natural Sciences in that city where it is still to be found.

- 980A — Companion to Gould's Hand Book, or Synopsis of the Birds of Australia, containing about 220 examples, for the most part from the Original Drawings by Silvester Diggles. Vol I. (all published), containing sixty lithographic plates, coloured, with descriptive letterpress, imp. 4to, half morocco extra. Brisbane, 1887

Intended as a substitute for the larger and expensive work of Gould, but discontinued for lack of support—only 150 copies were issued.

- 981 GOULD (John) The Mammals of Australia, complete in three imperial folio volumes and containing one hundred and eighty coloured plates, bound in half morocco extra, cloth sides, gilt edges, 1863 (published in this style at £42). Copy fresh as new £25
In execution, Gould's "Mammals" are precisely similar to the "Birds"; if less beautiful, it is because birds are more "glorious" creatures than ordinary animals. The work has, however, been so highly approved of by many, that (according to the author) "they regard it as more interesting than the 'Birds' of the same country." In a Times notice of the work, the reviewer referred to some of the specimens as "worthy of Landseer."
- 982 GOULD (John) An Introduction to the Mammals of Australia, 8vo, cloth. 1863 4s
With autograph of the Author, "Mrs. De Vitre, with the Author's kind regards, April 25, 1863," and bookplate of A. J. P. Matthews.

- 1336 La Borde (M. de) Histoire Abrégée de la Mer du Sud, ornée de plusieurs cartes, composée pour l'éducation de Mgr. le Dauphin, 3 vols, 8vo, calf neat, and Atlas (11 cartes), oblong 4to, half calf. Paris, 1791 £1 10s.

A very interesting work based upon that of De Brosse, beginning with Paulmier de Gonneville (1503), naturally giving prominence to discoveries of the French navigators Bougainville, de Surville (whose voyage from India to Peru, 1769, is here given from the Journal of M. Pierre de Monneron), Marion du Fresne, Duclesmeur and Crozet, 1771-72. The Spanish, Dutch and English voyages to the Pacific from Magellan to Cook, Phillip, Shortland and Bligh; the Mutiny of the "Bounty," the wreck of the "Guardian," Capt. Riou, are fairly summarized. It is erroneously stated in several bibliographies that the Journal of the Voyage of de Surville (here printed) is contained in the Appendix to Rochon's Voyage to the East Indies. The author of the statement, no doubt, intended to refer to the work of De la Borde.

- 1571 Massey (Gerald) A Book of the Beginnings: an Attempt to Recover and Re-constitute the lost Origines of the Myths and Mysteries, Types and Symbols, Religion and Language, with Egypt for the Mouthpiece and Africa as the Birth-place, 2 vols, 1,200 pp., imp. 8vo, cloth. 1881 (pub. 30s) 10s 6d

Mr. Massey's work shows that the Egyptian civilization is the oldest in the world; that Africa is the original home of the human race, and that Egyptian Colonies spread down the Nile valley and abroad throughout the world. He finds an African and not an Asiatic or Aryan origin for the Pacific and American races. This is shown in relics of the past—monuments in stone and root-words in languages as wide apart as the British and Polynesian. A comparison of 1,000 Maori words, with a similar number of Egyptian words is adduced to prove their relationship and common origin. So with the Monoliths upon some of the Islands in the Pacific.

- 1572 MASSEY (Gerald) The Natural Genesis: Second Part of "A Book of the Beginnings," 2 vols, 1,116 pp., imp. 8vo, cloth. 1883 (pub. 30s) 10s 6d

"Mr. MASSEY is an independent thinker. He shows that language is derived not from abstract roots, but from signs and symbolic actions far antecedent. He does away with the notions of a civilization springing up suddenly, or miraculously communicated to man, and of a language rich and complete in its very origin. For the first time, perhaps, we have inquiries into primitive philology, mythology, and the early history of our species untainted by the preconceived notion of an absolute and qualitative distinction between man and the lower animals. The author's results are in strict accord with those which modern naturalists have reached by totally different processes. We do not hesitate to say that if the substance of this work could be presented in a condensed form, freed as much as possible from 'scaffolding,' it would form a valuable—almost necessary—companion to Darwin's Descent of Man, the one work complementing and supporting the other. Reluctantly breaking off our survey of this remarkable book, we can merely hope that what we have said may at least excite the curiosity of the reader, and lead him to inquire for himself. We would, indeed, bespeak for Mr. MASSEY's work the earnest attention of Evolutionists. To us it seems that he is turning the only position of importance still held by our opponents, and that his movement, if properly followed up, will be decisive."—Journal of Science.

"Thanks for your great and wonderful work. I see it contains many things of profound interest. The sections on 'Numbers' and 'Language' appear to me especially interesting."—ALFRED RUSSEL WALLACE.

A remarkable production for a youth in his teens, whose knowledge of Australia was gained from the writings of Mrs. MEREDITH and the work of the Rev. W. PRIDDEN. His judges struck out one passage in which he gives voice to the Spirit of the Unborn Nation in the following lines:—
"When Empire's star has run
Back to his birthplace in the rising Sun,
Behold the Land in which shall reign fulfilled
All that the New shall work, all that the Old had willed;
Souls, whom the Present rests not, come and see
The glorious morning of the World to be."
This, the University authorities thought too visionary.

- Sydney Parkinson, artist to Sir Joseph Banks, having died at Batavia, his effects were handed over at the end of the voyage by Banks to his brother, Stanfield Parkinson. From certain rough drafts and papers the present "Journal" was compiled by Dr. Kenrick—the original Journal having been "lost," or "could not be found." After the death of Stanfield Parkinson, the unsold copies of the work were purchased by Dr. Fothergill, and sold to the booksellers, Dilly and Phillips, who produced the enlarged volume of 1784.
- Parkinson preserved some short vocabularies, including one of the natives of New Holland, in which "Kangaroo" appears for the first time as the name for the leaping animal.

The ill-fated expedition in the "Boussole" and "Astrolabe" under La Perouse sailed from France in 1785 to the Pacific and N. W. Coast of America, the Kurile Islands, Japan, and the Philippines, and having meantime visited Easter Island and the Hawaiian Group, the vessels then sailed from Manila, by way of Samoa and the Friendly Islands, to Botany Bay and Port Jackson, where they arrived in January, 1788, only a few hours later than the first fleet under Governor Phillip. Departing from Port Jackson after a short stay, they were not heard of again for more than forty years. For Narratives of the Search Expeditions see DENTRECASTEAUX, LABILLARDIERE, and PERON; for Discovery of the Fate of the Expedition see DILLON and BAYLY.
- At the end of the first volume of the present edition of La Perouse is a translation by Pingré of Maurelle's Spanish Voyage of the "Princesa" from Manilla to the North of New Guinea and the Friendly Islands in 1780-81, and a chart of this voyage is included in the La Perouse Atlas, as well as a copy of the chart taken by Anson (q.v.) from the Spanish Galleon in 1744. A valuable work to the future historian. Mr. Russell introduces the reader to the original pioneers. He has anecdotes to tell of Leichhardt, of Allan Cunningham (whose journal, occupying 50 pages, he now prints for the first time), of the Hodgsons, Allmans, Leslies, Edmund Kennedy, and many other Queensland and North Australian pioneers. In an Appendix, extracts are given from Cook's and from Flinders's Journal relating to the Coasts of Queensland, and Major Campbell's Journal relating to the North Australian Settlements.

"A great work on a great subject. . . Only the perfection to which the photographic and chromo-lithographic arts have been brought could have rendered possible the production of such a really superb book as Mr. Saville-Kent's 'Great Barrier Reef of Australia,' the scientific value of which is so largely enhanced by the number and beauty of its illustrations. The book is one which, whether viewed as a scientific treatise on a fascinating subject, or as a contribution to our knowledge of the economic resources of that great colony, or a work of typographical and illustrative art, is entitled to unqualified praise."—The Australasian.

- 2227 Smith (Sir J. E.) A Specimen of the Botany of New Holland, 16 figures from drawings of Surgeon-General White by James Sowerby—Also Dr. SHAW's Zoology of New Holland, with 12 plates, Birds (5), Opossums (3), Fish (1), Tortoise (1), Lobster (1), Snake (1); the 2 works, with the plates coloured, in 1 vol, royal 4to, half morocco. 1793-94 (rare) £6 10s

It is noticeable that although Dr. Shaw uses the name 'New Holland' on his title-page; in the text, he writes to 'The vast Island, or rather Continent of Australia, Australasia, or New Holland,' and elsewhere, when he has occasion to describe an animal, he styles it 'Australian.' He was, therefore, the first to use that name in its present application.

The work is illustrated with portrait, views, diagrams, numerous maps in the text, and four double page picture maps engraved on wood (and coloured) of Africa, Asia, Europe, and the Fourth Part of the World, i.e. N. and S. America (but without that name), fairly well outlined, showing Behring's Strait and the Pacific bounded on the West by Japan and New Guinea, and on the South by "partie de la Terre Antarctique incogneue." The N.W. Coast of "partie de la Terre Australle" is shown on the map of Asia to the South of La Grande Jave (between 16 and 20 degrees S.); "Petite Jave" (a promontory only) lies to the East (between 158 and 162 degrees E., and 18 and 20 degrees S.). The description of the Terre Australe is in Vol I, book XII, chap. xii, p. 444 b; here the South continent is referred to as being, in the author's opinion, as great in extent as Asia or Africa; the Moluccas, Sumatra, Java, Borneo, Pelew, and the Philippines are treated in book XII, chaps. I to VIII; St. Augustine and the Antipodes in chap. XXII.

Although the letterpress was printed in London, the plates were engraved and coloured by the Author in the Colony. This early issue of the work appears to be unknown in Sydney. Walker (Australasian Bibliography, 1888), catalogues two copies (1) with the title "Birds of New South Wales, 4to, pp. 18 and 18 plates, Sydney, 1813," and notes:—" [A specimen of the first efforts of printing and engraving in Australia]." (2) The London re-issue of 1822 (see below). The present 1808 issue contains a printed list of Sydney subscribers obtained by the author in 1806, including the names of Governor Bligh, his daughter and son-in-law, Capt. and Mrs. P. G. King, Col. Paterson, Major Johnston, Lieut. Oxley, several members of the Macarthur family, Marsden the Chaplain, Blaxland, and other early settlers, who took between them 67 copies. Only six copies were subscribed for in London—Lady Arden, Lady Wilson, Sir Joseph Banks, Ambrose Serle, E. Finch Hatton, and Alex. M'Leay, then Sec. of the Linnean Society, afterwards private Secretary to Governor Brisbane.

- 2838 — Birds of New Holland, LADY ARDEN'S COPY of the original issue, 1808 : bound up with which is Lewin's "PROPOSALS for publishing by subscription a small Work of Phalæna Insects of New South Wales," and six coloured copper-plates of that work, engraved by the author in the colony in 1803, one volume, imp. 4to, half bound (unique) £10

On the fly-leaf of the "Birds," Lady Arden noted (in 1847) "18 coloured plates by the hand of John William Lewin sent to me in the Spring of 1808. There were to have been several "volumes but I have never since heard of any other. M. E. ARDEN." At the foot of the "Proposals" for publishing the "Insects," her ladyship has written "I have heard no more of this interesting and beautiful little Work to which I was a subscriber. Poor Lewin died in that Country a few years after these Proposals were sent me, M. E. ARDEN."

Neither of these statements are correct: (1) Eight additional plates of "Birds" are included in the editions of 1822 and 1838 (see below): (2) the "Insects" was issued complete with 18 plates and text as announced in the "Proposals": (London, 1805), and Lady Arden appears not to have known, or to have forgotten, that this work was dedicated to herself "in grateful remembrance of that goodness which had given the author an opportunity of employing his talents in a new world." The "Insects" is, however, extremely rare. These plates were the earliest engravings ever produced in Australia! a fact which appears to have been forgotten when Wallis's New South Wales, illustrated with plates engraved by Preston, was issued in 1821.

- 2839 — Natural History of the Birds of New South Wales [Re-issue], illustrated with 26 coloured plates, imp. 4to, half morocco. London, 1822 £4

This issue contains eight additional plates and descriptive letterpress reset, but is without the original preface to 1808 edition, and is commonly supposed to be the first edition, the dates on the copperplates having been erased. A re-issue, with reprint of title-page and same date (1822) is in circulation; the watermark of the paper bears the date 1875!

- 2840 — The Birds of New South Wales, New and Improved Edition, containing new list of Synonyms of each Species, illustrated with 26 coloured plates, imp. 4to, half morocco. London, 1838 £4

A re-issue of the original plates (coloured by another hand), and text of the 1822 Edition with new title and two-page List of Synonyms of each Species, compiled by Eyton, according to Gould, Vigers, Horsfield, Swainson, Jardine and Selby.

- 2841 — The Lepidopterous Insects of New South Wales, illustrated with 19 coloured plates on tinted grounds, small 4to, half morocco extra. London, 1822 (very rare) £3

This is a small paper issue of the earliest edition of the "Insects" (London, 1805), with a new title-page and an additional plate. THE ENGRAVINGS ARE THE EARLIEST EVER DONE IN THE COLONY, and by Lewin himself.

- 2842 Leupe (P. A.) De Reizen der Nederlanders naar het Zuidland of Nieuw Holland in de 17e en 18e eeuw, met Kaart, 8vo, half calf. Hague, 1867 £1 1s

Petherick, Second Edition, illustrated with facsimiles of rare title-pages and maps, 1 vol, imp. 8vo, 468 pp. parchment, gilt top. 1886 30s

- 2932 ——— Presentation Copy, white vellum, gilt edges 36s

"This important catalogue is elegantly printed on hand-made paper. The work comprises an Index of Countries and Subjects, and an Index of Authors, occupying 132 pages in small type; then the General Catalogue in 336 pages, arranged under General Geography, Transactions and Collections, Voyages and Travels, followed by local geography under the various countries; the whole forming the most comprehensive and useful geographical catalogue yet issued. All the early voyages recorded in the great Collections of Hakluyt, Purchas, etc., are here separately indexed, an inestimable boon to the student. The volume is illustrated with 18 facsimile titles, etc."—An Old Bookseller.

"A volume of infinite value as a record of books about voyages, discoveries, commerce and colonization . . . and an essential work for every large library to possess. . . . It is a cyclopædia of geography and travel, an index not only to rare and priceless, but to ordinary and popular books. It gives not only titles of works and elaborate indexes to the great collections—Hakluyt, Purchas, Churchill, etc.—but the contents are classified and arranged in order of date, and thus the facts of the history of discovery and colonization are ready for the reader's hand. . . . The printing and the binding are admirable in accuracy, clearness and good taste; indeed the volume is a livre de luxe, while its contents and arrangement leave it without a rival as a summary of historical and geographical facts." An Old Book Collector.—[SAM TIMMINS, Esq.] in the Birmingham Post.

"As a book of reference for the geographical student, the York Gate Catalogue is of the highest value."—SYDNEY HERALD.

Preparing for the Press.

A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF AUSTRALASIA AND POLYNESIA.

By EDWARD A. PETHERICK.

This work, which it is proposed to issue in one volume, imperial octavo (900 or 1000 pages) at about £3 10s, will contain titles of all known publications in any language, relating to Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand, and other Island Groups of the Pacific Ocean, since the beginning of the 16th Century. Of the titles already obtained—over thirty thousand in number, a large proportion belong to Colonial publications which have never been included in any general catalogue before. The Titles (with place of publication, date, pagination, illustrations, maps, and translations), are grouped under the SUBJECTS, COLONIES, ISLANDS, DIALECTS, etc., to which they refer, and arranged in chronological order, cross references being made to contents of voyages and explorations and other comprehensive treatises. An Alphabetical List of Authors, with their separate works, articles, and papers, as well as a copious and exhaustive Index of Subjects, will be added.

The following is an outline of the general plan of the Classified Catalogue:—Bibliographies and Catalogues; Dictionaries and Gazetteers; Collections, Cyclopædies, and Systematic Works; History of Discovery and Cartography; Nautical Directories and Charts; Voyages to Australasia and the Pacific, 16th to 19th Century; Antarctic Voyages; Geography and Exploration of Australia; Astronomical, Magnetical, and Meteorological Observations; Physical Geography; Geology; Marine Biology; Botany; Zoology; Anthropology; Australian Colonization (New South Wales, Tasmania, Queensland, Northern Settlements, Western Australia, Victoria, South Australia); New Zealand Colonization; Colonial Politics and Economics; Law and Jurisprudence; Industrial Resources and Manufactures; Literary, Religious and Miscellaneous Publications (including Poetry, Prose Fiction, Periodical Publications, etc.).

Complete prospectus and specimen pages on application.

CLASSIFIED INDEX OF SUBJECTS AND AUTHORS.

NOTE.—The names printed in roman type refer to separate and independent works relating to the subject heading; those printed in italic type indicate that the work forms a part or section of a more comprehensive work, voyage or collection of voyages.

The letter S indicates that the work is catalogued in the Supplement.
